WALLA WALLA, Wash. (September 24, 2019) – The FINCH, a new and distinctly local hotel situated on the sunrise side of Main Street in downtown Walla Walla, plans to open its doors during the fall 2019 season. The FINCH will open as a community-powered inspiration and hub for the dynamic culture and sense of adventure that downtown Walla Walla provides residents and visitors year-round.

The FINCH was refreshed and renovated from a former motel built in 1967. Guests will see elements of the original architecture mixed with new, modern details, including a refreshing open-air design, an outdoor fireplace and multiple gathering spaces that encourage guests to take in the natural beauty of the area and relax with a glass of Walla Walla wine or a game of pétanque (a French lawn game similar to bocce ball).

“Walla Walla is a destination that has something for everyone, and The FINCH will serve as the perfect base camp for our guests,” said General Manager Matt Skaletsky. “This hotel reflects the beauty and innovation of the region, offering a modern, comfortable and creative space to explore, indulge and relax. We look forward to welcoming guests to The FINCH this fall, just in time for one of the most festive times of year in wine country.”

In the hotel lobby, guests will be welcomed with coffee from Walla Walla’s Livit Coffee Co. and a selection of herbal teas. A rotating assortment of local, fresh breakfast snacks will be available each morning to fuel guests for their next adventure. The custom-designed Map Room, along with complimentary Field Guide travel journals upon check-in, will inspire guests to explore the region from every angle. The hotel’s knowledgeable team will be at the ready to share recommendations of their favorite wineries and restaurants, along with hidden gems throughout the valley and beyond.

When guests return from their Walla Walla adventures, guestrooms will offer plush mattresses, MALIN+GOETZ bath products, cozy bathrobes and bathrooms with walk-in tile showers. Custom wall installations created by regional artists will be featured in each of The FINCH’s modern guestrooms, inspired by Walla Walla’s food, wine and outdoor culture. For example, Yogesh Simpson, a Whitman College graduate, designed an infographic depicting the soil compositions of wineries in the southwest to northeast Walla Walla regions.

Walla Walla is known as the road cycling capital of Washington, where paved trails run through historic and business neighborhoods, along rolling hills and past wineries and golden farmland. For those traveling with bikes, The FINCH has a tune-up station on-site as well as multiple storage options, perfect for those planning a biking excursion around the Valley. The FINCH will also provide two cruiser bikes for guest use, purchased from nearby Allegro Cyclery.

Rates begin at $159/night. For availability and reservations, call 888-796-6464 or visit www.finchwallawalla.com.

The FINCH was developed by a group based in Bozeman, Montana, with partners connected to Walla Walla. The group’s goal is to develop properties that remain true to their surroundings and maintain a genuine connection to regional inspiration. Its inaugural property, The LARK, opened in downtown Bozeman in 2015. The hotel was designed by THINKTANK and Fernau + Hartman architecture firms, and general contractor Elements Hospitality brought the vision to life. The FINCH is operated by Seattle-based Columbia Hospitality, Inc.
