AUTUMN LEAVES

Leaf-peeping season is just around the corner, a time that inspires nature lovers to hit the road in search of the season's vibrant displays of color in picturesque and bucolic settings. While driving along famed foliage routes is one way to experience nature's last hurrah before winter, there are also dozens of restaurants across the country that offer spectacular views, combining a memorable or perhaps even romantic meal with the brilliant colors of American yellowwoods, European beeches, sugar maples, red maples, and more. Here are 40 restaurants around the country known for their unforgettable views.

COPPER LEAF BAR & TERRACE AT CEDARBROOK LODGE

SeaTac, Washington

Crafting meals using ingredients plucked from an onsite garden, Copper Leaf Bar & Terrace was designed to be an urban oasis. It's located amid 18 acres of natural, protected wetlands that come September and October put on quite a fall display. The restaurant offers both terrace dining and indoor seating with equally notable views.
